Dassault Systemes bets big on digital makeover of manufacturing

Shanghai,
With the internet taking an industrial dimension whereby new equipment and other technologies are transforming the way goods are produced, industrial innovation must integrate multiple digital concepts to revolutionise existing processes, top executives of 3D software major Dassault Systemes said here at an event. Digital technology will drive the industrial revolution 4.0 -- innovation programmes to reduce manufacturing costs, increase efficiencies and sustainability, inspire creativity and generate new business models, the French technology company demonstrated at its two-day 'Manufacturing in the Age of Experience' event that concluded on Friday. "Digital's most visible value is to increase productivity and competitiveness, but its true power is the imagination. Manufacturers that succeed will be those that will create a world which does not yet exist," said Pascal Daloz, Executive Vice President, Brands and Corporate Development, Dassault Systemes. "The digital factory is not only virtual, connected and automated, but is above all an execution system, where men's skills are turned to innovation, performance, quality and continuous change," Daloz said. "The virtual becomes constitutive of the products themselves. As a consequence, the value is migrating to the cloud services where data are a strategic asset for the industry to reinvent itself," Daloz noted. The event highlighted how the digital makeover of the manufacturing sector is essential for creating a dynamic, holistic and more sustainable production model that results in a better consumer experience. Dassault Systemes provides "3DEXPERIENCE" universes for collaboration and innovation to implement innovative strategies in support of 3DEXPERIENCE platform features virtual design, simulation, manufacturing and collaboration applications in a digital environment that integrate products, processes and supply chains, and offer a federated view of a manufacturer's business in real time.

Business Brief III

Work on Lucknow outer ring road to begin in January

Lucknow,
The outer ring road project in the Uttar Pradesh state capital will begin in January 2017, an official said on Saturday. The 95-km long project will be built by the National Highway Authority of India (NHAI) and is aimed at decongesting the growing traffic problems in the city. The construction work between Faizabad-Rae Bareilly road and Sitapur road and Sultanpur road would begin early January, an official told IANS. A two year timeline has been fixed for completion of the project and has been distributed in four phases. Of these, work on the first two phases would begin in January. NHAI officials further informed that adequate land has been acquired and the survey would be undertaken in December by selected companies for the necessary work and alignment. The land acquisition for the ambitious project, whose foundation stone was laid down by Union Home Minister Rajnath Singh, has been assisted by the Lucknow Development Authority (LDA) and the district administration. The Public Works Department (PWD) of the state government is already constructing a 'Kisan Path' connecting the Faizabad road to Sultanpur road and this has been accepted as part of the outer ring road, the official added.
